Lawyer on Flo Rida paternity suit: "Surely he knows where babies come from"

There's some movement in the case between Natasha Georgette Williams, the model suing Flo Rida (real name Tamar Lacel Dillard) for child support of her unborn child. The Miami-based rapper has admitted to participating in the act that may have created a baby with that woman, but he's still skeptical that he's the father. Williams' lawyer Raymond Rafool told us "Shame that Flo Rida attempts such character assassination of the mother of his child all to avoid his moral and financial responsibilities to his child. But, at least he made some progress from denying he knows Natasha to okay, we had sex - surely he knows where babies come from...."
